Suzan Albanesi Davenport

Saint George

Suzan Davenport passed away on March 26 at her home in Saint George, Utah. Suzie was born March 19, 1947 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She was the first child of Vincent Albanesi and Mary McGovern Albanesi, the latter of whom still survives. She married David Davenport at Snow Hill, Maryland on a Tuesday afternoon, June 17, 1969.

Suzie took on every role in her life enthusiastically, whether it was as a student at Clarion University of Pennsylvania, a mother of three marvelous daughters, an advertising sales manager, a devoted grandmother or a world traveler. An uncommonly beautiful woman, who, in her lifetime, read many hundreds of books, she was always quick to speak up when she encountered bigotry or dishonesty. She lived a highly principled life, setting a standard for every other member of her family. She loved making friends, and she genuinely liked just about everyone she knew. She did a lot of hiking over the years. All her life she had a childlike fascination with the birds and flowers, and she would point them out as she went along. She also spent a lot of time in the gym. No matter what she did, she always gave it her best effort.

Suzie is survived by her husband of nearly 46 years, David, their daughters, Jesse (Darren Alder), Cassandra Gaisford and Mary (Lee Kane). She also leaves behind six grandchildren about whom she was completely nuts.

Burial will be at Larkin Sunset Gardens in Sandy, Utah. No services will be held.
